Looking to improve your interview skills?

Competency Based Interviewing (CBI) is a widely endorsed technique which is used for both assessment and development of individuals. In this training, Propel's qualified trainers will assist the participant in exploring their past behaviour and aligning it with competencies that are required for the target role, thus providing a reliable prediction of the participant's performance.

This 1-day training is designed to include role plays & observation exercises, group discussions, and experiential learning because we believe that appropriate training on how to use interviews to drive effective and objective decision-making is at the core of every organization's agenda.

Learning Outcomes

Upon completion of this training, you will experience the following benefits:

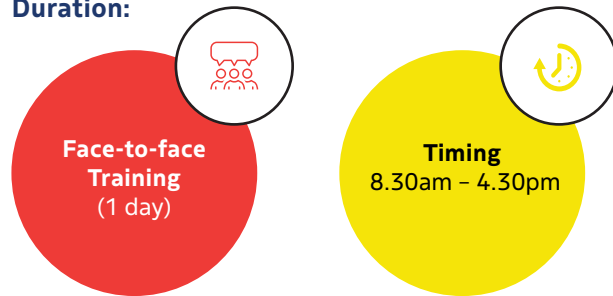

Improved organizational branding through a positive and consistent candidate experience.

Objective, structured, consistent, and fair application of selection criteria.

Hands-on experience in the objective use of best practice assessment methodology

Confidence and familiarity with CBIs, using best practice questioning techniques
